Hi everyone,

Here's a quick run down of what we discussed today.

1. Nigel is almost done with the install set-up and estimates that it will be done in the next day or two, excepting Docker.
2. Once that's done, Kathy and I can move forward on Drupal development. She'll review my install clean-up notes and either meet with me later in the week to address any questions or, if not, just move forward with the clean up.
3. Nigel, in turn, will continue working on Docker and, separately, he and I will also meet later in the week to start planning the next bit of Islandora development with the idea of beginning on work on that next week.

And that's it, I think. Let me know if I got it all right. Otherwise, thanks again!

Adrian
