My dear Father

We gladly welcomed our friend

Paul back again after his visit to the Kuruman and the etceteras he brought were as welcome as he. We had received a most gloomy view of the state of Kuruman from Motseabona felt quite sad over it. Everybody talking of leaving & many actually left. You too among the talkers of learning. we really did not know what to make of it. I was on the point of offering you this house in order that you might go on undisturbed in your translations. Anxiety to see some little fruit from our labours among the Bakwains was the only thing in my mind that pre-vented. And after all, the mountain in labour brought forth a ridiculous mouse. Paul gave such a glowing account of the numbers & state of your young people we felt quite cheered. Above all to see Sebube come forward & choose a station for himself is quite exhilarating. I felt inclined at once to go over & help him with his house but thought afterwards it would be better not. Let all the praise of the commencement be given to whom it is due & all the disgrace of attempting to hinder his settlement ^{rest} on the head which could tell you with tears & groans that he always assisted native teachers. Sebube will tell you of his message to the Wuketse not to receive him. fortunately his influence is there as almost everywhere else somewhere about the degree zero.

We delayed the Baptism of Sechele for two months after his formal application. As he had for a long time previous professed firm belief in the truth of Christianity & his general conduct seemed to be influenced by this belief we did not feel so much hesitancy as we should have done had there been more previous indications of change. He was tested in the interval by his own people in several ways & by the renowned chief Moshesh in a way that might have influenced one who was insincere at heart. He had sent some men with Karosses about four or five months previously in order to purchase a horse. Moshesh received the messengers very kindly and as I gave them a note to the missionaries requesting any members who might feel disposed, to act kindly towards them & for their spiritual good the poor fellows were well taken care of. Moshesh gave them about ten head of & cattle & two horses. A great deal for poor people in this country & sent a private message to the chief that whatever he wished whether guns gunpowder horses or cattle he must apply to him & he would supply them, & tell him to allow his people to believe if they like but he (Sechele) must never believe. I am a king said Moshesh "I won't put myself under the authority of another (viz. God) I have my kingdom as well as He. & people would laugh at me if I believed & put myself under the power of another. tell Sechele that." Sechele told me although it was a private message & added ki le ka nyatsa gore ga a itse se o se buan ka a re Morimo ki khose ka ana. I should not like this private message to get wind. The answer seemed satisfactory to us. We were happy to have Paul with us In receiving him many of the people were shedding tears of sorrow for what do you think? That he was so far left to himself as to allow himself to drink the brains of men. It seemed water, said one to me. I expected to see something tala in it Ka na ba rosa yalo send another na reñ? They in general believe the satanic suggestions of wicked persons who tell them that baptism is being caused to drink men's brains & the Lord's supper a scene of impurity. They love darkness rather than light. The youngest child be desired to be called Setefano in allusion to his hope of being the first among the Interior chiefs who will embrace the gospel He endures a good deal of trial from his people at present. We have no rain - one good shower alone this year while around us the rains have been abundant. The Kolobeñ gets smaller & smaller. ~~But~~It has not run into the watercourse for the last three weeks. The people say to him, "There is Mosielele, he has plenty of rain & he hates the word. Our chief loves it we have none" - This is the fourth year of scarcity. They had always abundance of corn untill the Word came.- Last year at this time we could not make our water course contain its water but two dry seasons following each other seems too much for it- If the prince of the power of the air has no hand in it we feel unkindly towards the old rogue. We are cutting corn - seem to have a pretty fair crop. The friends who send the chairs would be pleased if they knew they came just two days before his baptism & their first use was on that occasion & one of them by the wife he has retained the gun gave great satisfaction, but two months nearly have elapsed before he could bring himself to fire with it. He told me he did not know what to do with it. It was too fine to shoot out of it hela. He intended to keep it till he got a waggon & then he would shoot with it occasionally & then put it into its bed. But a big buffalo made a mistake yesterday and came blundering through the town. He fired the first shot into it. It is now loaded in both barrels. He wonders who made the different parts & as there are three names for conjecture viz. Tipping Lawden & Parker it is supposed one made the stock another the lock & a third the barrel - The gun accoutrements are welcome have you no finished common musket ~~hammers~~ cocks the percussion are not at present so useful as these would be. I have completely failed in all attempts to make a screw thread in the inside of the part of the tumbler which projects. The taps have a portion tapering at the point which only scrapes & before the real screw comes into operation it is either down to the bottom or broken Can you give me any hint or instruction on the point - Any finished pans.? Time is everything here.*

2^d sheet

Can you provide us with 1/2 muid of good seed corn for next sowing. That we have is mixed with Bengal &c. The seeds are very welcome indeed. None of my beans did[* and any new ideas you may have acquired on putting fire into a pan]

Yours come on splendidly. The scotch Kale was excellent at Mabotsa but the two plants preserved for seed were planted close to each other & a curious interchange was the result - The kale gave its breadth of leaf to the turnips & contented itself with becoming a "thistle" with a short stalk The turnips are now things with leaves like bananas & enormous branching inedible roots - A few seem to have escaped the contagion but I doubt whether they will be worth propagation

Of M^r Oswel's seeds the custard apple did best we have six growing rigorously - many more came up but were devoured by insects several beat roots & a plant called Bringale have come on but these are all

If you can procure sheep as cheap as the last but at some future time you will oblige us by them. But no more goats. They are very useful in payment but a skin disease unusually fatal these two last years renders it unprofitable for us to keep them any time on our hands The sheep do extremely well & we can pay with them. heifers will always be welcome preferred indeed to every thing else. We can get 9 or 10 sheep in exchange for one - It will be well to avoid spending anything money on on our behalf for some months or till next year[']s salary comes due except for hiefers & Tea - We shall want but little besides If you can procure good tea for us we shall remember you every time we drink it - If you cannot get what we like best the next best although inferior must do. Although it should be like rotten hay & we say, so we do not dream of attaching blame to you because you are not the Tea dealer — As for the Ham We never doubted your kind intentions in sending it - & our remarks had a reference to the future rather than the past - We never dreamed of sending back anything bought for us never having once looked on you as the dealers

We are not Mahometans either. We are glad you admire the cap. We shall send that perhaps.

What in the world has become of Robert III we are exceedingly anxious to learn - Mary is afraid he has been in the commando against the boers. I imagine he would be employed in some way at the time perhaps as aide camp or what not for what will not conjecture conjure up. The worst of conjecture is its indefiniteness to those who have but little of the imaginative & excitable in their composition

[0008]

I am very glad of the musket. Have you never recieved the powder ordered? You must not forget that one of the bellows must come this way. I intend giving that we now have to Paul when settled with Makhatla which use will I feel sure meet your approbations - as soon as we plough we shall make the attempt to fix him there – Paul is preparing - I felt favourable to the proposition that Sebube & Paul join at the Bañuaketse at first But on reflection came [^] to the conclusion that we ought to attempt introducing the gospel into both places & if both are as favourably recieved as Sebube has been - each may in time be furnished with an associate. Sebube does not seem to need any energy from Paul & I do not expect soon to find one better adapted for commencing a station than Paul If Paul is not allowed to remain in the prosecution of his work we shall then think the way open for ~~Paul~~ him to go over to the Bañuaketse the attempt would have been made sooner had we not been engaged in removing hither &c. This has caused more than 12 months delay. a long time to some this may appear but no portion of my life passed quicker & though I have not done all I wished verily I have not been idle. It occurs to me at this moment that as on earth when employed in what we enjoy. The time passes so quickly we do not perceive its course so the employments of heaven will completely saturate the periods of direction & in the opposite state existence will drag on heavily, there will be no employment to disturb the everlasting ennui of prolonged eternal despair What a wearisome time Judas has spent since he went to his own place. What a mercy to be allowed to spend our lives in labour for him whom we shall yet see in glory. A great mercy indeed that he makes that labour pleasant

Many thanks for the gun apparatus. Have you none of more greater finish. We want time very much to drill holes especially. The two loading rods have been bought by Sechele. I have got wherewithal to pay for them. He is anxious to pay for the double barrel & gun & will do so soon for he has sent to the Bamangwato in expectation of ivory. It has been promised. If successful the little rifle will be bought about same time S. does not know what to say about his gun he is so pleased with it. Among the multitude of words expressions of gratitude to Tipping Lawden Parker you & myself are not wanting and the overruling Providence which protected in its way is duly acknowledged. I think you would be pleased by his expressions in prayer. He has a great deal of opposition to bear with & you need to remember him that he may be established with truth. We teach a little English to him Paul & Mabaloe & a few others, but have only one English Burner. Can you furnish us with some & a few English Testaments if you have them. We were glad of the books sent lately. I had the impression that you had handed over the book department to M^r Ashton Our schools have diminished since we received the chief or rather since the wives were dismissed & so has the attendance on the services - Mokhatla's lock was done extremely well. I seldom hit giving the pans so much fire — —

The weather is excessively warm - From 93° to 95 in the coolest part we can find in the shady parts of our house - I worked unders some mimosas as long as I could but the heat gave me headache - A complaint I never knew till lately so we built a smithy Mary is more troubled than formerly by the pains peculiar to her condition - I never looked to the clouds so much in my life as I have done these few months past

[0011]

Mary desires me to say that she did not send sugar by Motsealeona because she did not possess full con[-] -fidence in his honesty. If the trouble of drying quinces is not greater than that of preserving them we should prefer them so.. She will send sugar by next opportunity. Sebube is here on horseback.
I have read with great pleasure the Broadmead lectures by Foster - Have you his works selected from the Eclectic - I shall send the former out some day. Leelong gives an outline of the present state of organic Chemistry - as an appendix Agricultural chemistry which is excellent. You must remember it in some of your journeys.
Any word of vaccine virus?

Affectionately yours

D Livingston

Love & kind salutations to M^{rs} M Ann & M^r Hamilton. Mary desires me to transmit thanks for Cheeron recieved &c. The christian treasury is excellent - we thank you for perusal Be sure & read them before you send them I was much ashamed when I knew of was put in mind that you never read the Echo & the shame returned the other day when a number of that ill fated work stared me in the face
