

Missionary Travels: Musical Instruments

An educational worksheet for children aged 9-13 published by livingstoneonline.org

On Tuesday the 17th of January 1854 David Livingstone was invited to a celebration by a local leader called Shinte. Livingstone described the instruments played at the event in his book, Missionary Travels...

The piano, named "marimba", consists of two bars of wood placed side by side, here quite straight, but, farther north, bent round so as to resemble half the tire of a carriage-wheel; across these are placed about fifteen wooden keys, each of which is two or three inches broad, and fifteen or eighteen inches long; their thickness is regulated according to the deepness of the note required: each of the keys has a calabash beneath it; from the upper part of each a portion is cut off to enable them to embrace the bars, and form hollow sounding-boards to the keys, which also are of different sizes, according to the note required; and little drumsticks elicit the music.
